DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 15 - 23 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 15, 16, 26, 28, 32, and 33 of U.S. Patent No. 5,865,754 (cited by Applicant) in view of Hayashi (previously cited). The claims of the patent cover a method of tissue analysis that includes all of the features of the claims of the instant application except identifying the particular tissue that is examined, the particular fluorescent agent that is used, and the emission wavelengths of the fluorescent agent. Further, the claim of the instant application differs from the claim of the patent in that the patent claim does not particularly detail rejecting excitation light. Hayashi teaches a fluorescent imaging technique for imaging sentinel lymph nodes using indocyanine green, having a fluorescence spectrum as given in Figure 4 when excited by near-infrared light. Further, Hayashi teaches including a stimulating light cutoff filter prior to the detector. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to implement the claimed method of the patent to perform measurements on sentinel lymph nodes, since the patented method is intended to perform measurements on tissue and Hayashi teaches a manner to obtain fluorescence measurements from a tissue of interest, namely a sentinel lymph node, using a fluorescent agent. In addition, Hayashi teaches to include a cutoff filter prior to the fluorescence light detector.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments, see remarks, filed 1/4/10, with respect to the rejections under 112, first and second paragraph and 103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. The above rejections of the claims have been withdrawn.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1 - 14 are allowed.
